March 17-19, 2010

Hyatt Washington
Washington, D.C.

Keynote Speakers

Opening General Session with Michael P. Aitken

Michael P. Aitken, Director of Government Affairs, SHRM

SHRM's director of Government Affairs has responsibility for tracking and reporting on legislative and regulatory developments in Washington and lobbying Congress on behalf of SHRM and the HR profession. He will provide a Federal Public Policy Update with timely information on both pending and anticipated legislative, regulatory and judicial activity that may affect your daily business.

General Session with Claire Shipman and Katty Kay

Claire Shipman, Senior National Correspondent for "Good Morning America"

Katty Kay, Correspondent for BBC News

The authors of Womenomics: Write Your Own Rules for Success will discuss workplace flexibility, its importance to both men and women, and new approaches to workplace rules that would support a 21st century workforce. Drawing upon research from their book, as well as the recently released Shriver Report from the Center for American Progress, Shipman and Kay will explore public policy trends and ideas currently being debated from the White House to main street.

General Session with Amy Holmes and Jamal Simmons

Amy Holmes, CNN Political Commentator

Jamal Simmons, CNN Political Commentator

Amy Holmes and Jamal Simmons are two of the freshest young voices in American politics. Holmes is an unconventional voice in political news. As a political analyst, she dissects and debates the issues of the day, from the political horserace to public policy. Also a regular contributor to CNN's political coverage, Simmons emerged from the 2008 election as one of the most astute young voices in the world of political analysis. Together—and from each side of the political aisle—they will debate the policies and proposals coming out of Capitol Hill and the White House.

Closing General Session with Arianna Huffington

Arianna Huffington, Editor-in-Chief, The Huffington Post

With two wars waging on the other side of the globe, a battered economy and a number of hot-button issues making their way through Congress, it is safe to say that we live in interesting political times. In this penetrating look at today's political climate, Arianna Huffington gives an up-to-the-minute analysis of the issues facing America in the upcoming midterm elections, exploring issues such as the Middle East, health care and entitlement reform, the global economy, the environment and other topics of domestic and global importance.

Keynote Speakers

Steve Forbes, Editor-in-Chief, Forbes

Editor-in-chief of business magazine Forbes as well as president and chief executive officer of its publisher, Forbes Inc.

Al Gore, Former Vice President

Former Vice President Al Gore was inaugurated as the forty-fifth vice president of the United States on January 20, 1993, and served eight years. During the Administration, Al Gore was a central member of President Clinton’s economic team. Al Gore has been a fixture in American life for a generation. He inspired the world as a recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize. His Academy Award-winning documentary, “An Inconvenient Truth,” probed the issue of climate change and motivated followers worldwide. At the dawn of a green decade, Vice President Gore will craft a vision for a more vibrant, energy-efficient future at this year’s SHRM Annual Conference.

Marcus Buckingham, Motivational Speaker

Hailed as a visionary by corporations such as Toyota, Coca-Cola, Wells Fargo, Microsoft and Disney, Buckingham has helped to usher in the “strengths revolution,” persuasively arguing that people are dramatically more effective, fulfilled and successful when they are able to focus on the best of themselves.

Angelia Herrin, Moderator

Herrin will be moderating a deeply informative panel of high-profile C-suite level executives from a variety of industries in a discussion that will highlight their challenges, victories and strategies as they crafted the role that HR plays within their organization and industry.

What Is SHRM?

The Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) is the world's largest association devoted to human resource management. Representing more than 250,000 members in over 140 countries, the Society serves the needs of HR professionals and advances the interests of the HR profession. Founded in 1948, SHRM has more than 575 affiliated chapters within the United States and subsidiary offices in China and India. Visit SHRM Online at www.shrm.org.

The SHRM Difference

The Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) offers its conference attendees access to important and relevant topics presented by top-notch speakers. SHRM requires its presenters to focus on session content rather than mentioning or selling books, products or services from the podium. The exhibit hall offers attendees a great opportunity to network with colleagues and connect with exhibiting companies that provide the products and services you need to leverage your contributions to your organization.

Recertification Credit Available

Attention PHRs, SPHRs, and GPHRs!

The HR Certification Institute will award hour-for-hour recertification credit for each professional development session you attend, including preconference workshops and concurrent sessions. All sessions count toward general recertification credit. Visit each conference web site for more information.
